MRS. BELLE HINES DIES AFTER ILLNESS

Mrs. Belle Wright Hines died Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Luther R. Fair, 734 Lee street, aged 64 years. She had been in failing health for nearly two years, but had been critically ill for only a few days.

The deceased was a native of Guilford county, North Carolina, where the greater part of her life was spent. Her husband, E. L. Hines, died more than twenty years ago. She came to Danville from Richmond about four years ago. Besides her surviving children, Mrs. Hines had a son, Mr. Hines, advertising man with the Progressive Farmer, Birmingham, Ala., and Charles A. Hines, attorney at Greensboro, N. C. She also survived two sons, Mr. J. Hines, of Reidsville, and Mrs. A. S. Moore, of Greensboro.

The funeral services will be held at the home of Mrs. Fair Friday morning at 11 o'clock, and will be conducted by Rev. W. M. Taylor, of Cabell Street Memorial church, and Rev. C. N. Otey. Following this service the body will be carried to Hines Chapel, in Guilford county, N. C. for burial. Mrs. Hines had been a member of this church for about 40 years.

Sore, Bleeding Gums Stopped In 12 Hours

Creosene, A Pleasant Liquid That Accomplishes at Home All the Good Benefits of Treatment in Dental Chair Without the Pain and Expense.

Sore, bleeding gums indicate the beginning of pyorrhea. If neglected the infection spreads from the gum tissue to the root sockets—the foundation on which your teeth depend. Then the teeth fall out or must be pulled. Through the discovery of Creosene, a pleasant penetrating liquid, medicated with gum healing and germ destroying ingredients used by the dental profession carries the medication direct to the roots of the teeth, relieving pain, tightening loose teeth, healing pus pockets, destroying decayed teeth odors and killing the germ that leads to pyorrhea. The medicine used by Creosene is new, but is well known and used by the entire dental profession. The new discovery is the method of penetrator which carries these gum-healing germ-destroying medicines direct to the roots of the teeth and into every nook, corner and crevice in and between the teeth, thereby accomplishing at home, in a pleasant way, all the good benefits of a treatment in the dental chair, without the pain and expense. If your gums are sore and bleed easily, or your teeth sensitive or loose, this is your warning of pyorrhea ahead. Do not wait one minute, but go immediately to any good drug store, and purchase a dollar bottle of Creosene with the positive guarantee of relief in twelve hours or money refunded Creosene Co., Atlanta, Ga.—adv.

Co-Ops Gratified By Cash Advances

The highest advances ever paid by the Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association for tobacco of the Old Belt, pleased the members who brought their first offerings of the 1924 crop to the thirty markets of the association, which opened yesterday in Western North Carolina and Virginia.

Cash advances by the association, which ran as high as $32.50 on some of the grades delivered today, rose sharply on the medium grades. The average cash payments to the associated farmers were higher on every load than has been the case since the association was formed. An average of $18.22 per hundred pounds was made available today for members who delivered to the association warehouse at Danville and received their first cash advances, which averaged $12.15, and additional loans to the amount of half their cash receipts were desired.

500,000 Pounds in Receipts.
Approximately 500,000 pounds are reported as the receipts of the thirty association warehouses which opened today. Due to the later crop and the efforts of the farmers in the northern and western counties of the Old Belt to save the tobacco which is still in the field, deliveries ran considerably higher at the association receiving point than was the case last year.

It is estimated that from twenty five per cent. of the crop in this section is still on the hill, and growers are making desperate efforts to save the standing crop, which has already suffered from rains and frost. Among averages reported from today's deliveries were those made by P. H. Terry, of tobacco worked by M. M. Jeffers and E. S. Gee, which brought a first cash advance of $17.83 or an available cash value of over $26. Also that of J. H. Farthing and Roy Chatten of Ringgold, who received an average cash advance of $18.36 on a load of 932 pounds.

Payments on the association floors were well in line with the prices on the auction markets and in some instances association members received more from the cash advance and loan on their offerings than tobacco from the same barn brought at auction. A specific instance of this occurred in Danville yesterday when one split crop averaged $22.34 on the auction floor and brought an available cash value of $33.76 to a member of the association.

Many new members joined the association yesterday before final closing of membership books for deliveries of the 1924 crop. H. H. Edwards, of the largest grower of tobacco in Halifax county, Virginia, was among those who signed the marketing contract. Richard R. Patterson, General Manager of the association and T. C. Watkins, Jr., director of operations, are making a number of the association's receiving points in both Virginia and North Carolina and expressed satisfaction as to the receipts and operation of the cooperative receiving points.

"HOW ABOUT MY SON?" ASKS MOTHER

MRS. EMMA DOBBS WITH FOUR OF HER SEVEN CHILDREN TO WHOM SHE HAS DEVOTED HER LIFE. NOW SHE IS PETITIONING GOVERNOR RITCHIE OF MARYLAND, TO SAVE HER SON, CLAUDE, 19, SENTENCED TO DEATH FOR MURDER.

By NEA Service

BALTIMORE, Oct. 2.—"I'm afraid it will kill me if they hang him," Her eyes are dry. There is no hint of hysteria in her voice. Instead there is a note of calm conviction as Mrs. Emma Dobbs speaks. She belongs to the ranks of those who suffer in silence. She seeks to hide the strain behind a mask of quiet dignity and reserve.

But the mask has been worn too long. It has become a bit ragged and through it come the pale, the looks of haunted horror born of wakeful nights and long drawn days.

For Mrs. Dobbs' 19-year-old son, Claude, has been sentenced to hang for murder growing out of a store

heir-up. Mrs. Dobbs is 42. She has had seven children. The oldest is 20. Year upon year there has been the struggle to feed, clothe and shelter seven. Now the struggle is to save the life of one.

And there is so much to do. The tiny seventh Dobbs needs a great deal of attention. The fight to save Claude seemed so hopeless for a time. Now there is something tangible to work upon. And was also present of the Womans' Missionary Society.

DRY FORK NEWS
DRY FORK, Va., Oct. 1.—The recent rainy spell has been rather bad for all crops that are now in the field.

Practically all the tobacco of this immediate section has been cut and cured, but the reports are that what is being cured now is hard to cure and does not cure well. Much of the corn has been blown over and will not be sound when shucking time comes.

The Oakland Sunday school had a very good attendance last Sunday. The men's Bible class had about the usual number, and the young girls' class had a fine attendance.

Owing to the very muddy roads, the Billy Sunday club, of Red House, was unable to be there, but four of the Lynchburg club were there, and to the surprise of everybody, two of them were boys who were born and reared in this community. They were Jennings Hines, who has just secured license for the ministry, and Lynn Yeatts, who was with the club. The other two were Messrs. Thacker and White.

After the lesson, they took charge of the service and everybody seemed to have enjoyed it to the fullest extent, listening to their fine talks.

Miss Opal McDowell gave a party at her home, last Saturday night, at which the following were present: Misses Emma Crane, Effie Murphy, Myrtle Elliott, Fannie Oakes, Jane Giles, Earle Elliott, Oneda Crane, Carrie Davis, Rena Shelton, Hallie Davis, and Gertrude Cassada, and Messrs. Percy Murphy, Frank Crane, Randolph Riddle, Mervin Oakes, David Giles, Aurilian Elliott, Poise Holley, Berk Cassada, Russell Holley, Jack and Henry Davis. The young people first had music and games and later fruit was served.

Aurilian and Miss Myrtle Elliott motored to Lynchburg, Sunday afternoon. The latter is expecting to spend some time with her uncle and aunt.

B. H. Elliott was in Lynchburg on business, Monday afternoon.

Facts About Child-birth

It has been proven conclusively that much of the suffering, pain and dread attendant during pregnancy, as well as at childbirth is entirely unnecessary. An eminent physician, Dr. J. E. Holmes, expert in this science, first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend," which aids the woman in her pregnancy, and during the constant readjustment month after month, right up to the climax of childbirth.

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally. Three generations of expectant mothers have used "Mother's Friend," and it has been used by "Mother's Friend," writes a mother, "I have used 'Mother's Friend' and I can say another. Use 'Mother's Friend' as our mothers and grandmothers did, start today and experience the wonderful comfort it will give you."

broadcast petitions asking Governor Ritchie to commute the death sentence. Mrs. Dobbs will start the petitions in circulation.

"Claude is such a boy—only 19. Just a child," she says. "Unconsciously she recites the verdict of Judge Caverly in the Leopold-Loeb case. Youth saved them. Then, reasons the mother, it surely should save her boy."

"I am going to make my appeal to mothers. They will understand me. I know there isn't a mother in Maryland that will refuse to sign our petition. They need but to put themselves in my place. And every night I'm praying that when we get all the signatures the governor will save him."

VIRGINIA NEWS
VIRGINIA, Va., Oct. 1.—The co-ops of this section gave a basket picnic here last Friday which was well attended. In spite of the rain a big crowd of people assembled in the co-op's warehouse where tables had been erected and a beautiful dinner was served. After dinner was over the people were seated to hear the speeches. Mr. Murt was the first speaker. He made a very convincing talk and his speech brought forth much applause. Mr. Murt was followed by Mr. West who also made a good talk. The occasion was one of a get-together and was much enjoyed from a social as well as a business standpoint.

Mrs. L. S. Crowell of this place left Sunday afternoon for Buffalo Springs, Va., where she will teach this session. She taught in the high school here for a number of years. And will be greatly missed by her many friends. She has been the superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school for the past ten years and was also president of the Womans' Missionary Society.

In New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The majority of people who come from other towns to live in New York—particularly older people—never become acclimated.

Unless success bumps them into the limelight and wealth, they brood over the heartlessness of the city habits to the masses, and long for the friendliness and cordiality of smaller communities.

With younger men and women who come here it is slightly different. Ambition and hope carry them over a wave of depression. But age does not wear well under the torments of oppression.

The other day an elderly widow was found dead. She had closeted herself in the kitchenette of her small apartment, turned the gas on and sat down in a chair to inhale the death fumes.

Letters disclosed that she had tired of life in New York and longed for her home in the west from which she had come.

The five offers a last resting place for many a man—and women—who in New York could not forget the days back in smaller towns where people are sympathetic.

And still New York's coldness to the life of those about it, is difficult to understand.

A pretty miss arrived from San Francisco a few weeks ago over a thin New York is the most wonderful place in the world and is having a whirl of a time.

In a stupid cabaret the other evening, at which she was the sparkling life of a large party, we felt to talking about the interest of spots of her home city.

She had heard of, but had never seen, Tates on the Beach, a San Francisco eating place, the most romantic spot in which I ever dined with a full-fledged meal. She has lived in "Frisco" all her years. Such is life. At a count of knick-knacks in a large department store, two very pretty salesladies were courteously and efficiently serving a surging crowd of customers. All was quiet.

PHILADELPHIA'S HUMILIATING EXPOSURE

The situation in which the famous city of Philadelphia finds itself is in a humiliating one to say the least. It is highly embarrassing for a city of the magnitude of the Pennsylvania metropolis to throw up its hands in the face of an internal situation and to tell the world that it is unable to cope with its own misdoings. Yet that is what has happened. A strange quirk of fate ordains that the City of Brotherly Love should be in this humiliating circumstance. The situation is not a new one. It is the fate common to cities which have political bosses who have built up prestige through the power of pull among the police and a system of nefarious trading with evil doers. Recognizing the inability of a graft ridden police department to cope with the situation the mayor who made a stand for civic righteousness succeeded in "borrowing" General Smedley Butler of the Marines for a given period to take charge of the police situation. He was given carte blanche in the matter and he waded into his work in a fashion characteristic to Marines who are not disposed to stand bull dozing and who at a pinch are not different about using hard boiled methods. General Butler soon found the political bosses arrayed against him, and he made such inroads in their ranks during the early struggle that with the prospect of defeat they applied their pressure to the mayor who apparently has yielded to them and who is now at odds with the police director. Mayor Kendrick for more than a week has become openly hostile to Butler and, but for the latter's illness he would have received a letter from the mayor discharging him. But Butler's illness has been timely. It has given a breathing spell and even now there is the hope of a better understanding and the probability of a greater degree of cooperation between the mayor and his military police dictator. Butler has nothing to lose. If he remains in charge and wins he will have achieved a new distinction. If he is "fired" he will retire as a martyr, and with the admiration of that element of Philadelphia's public life which may be expected to turn its wrath against Mayor Kendrick.

SOME OTHER STRAWS

Interesting as are the political straw votes and helpful as they may be in showing the drift of public opinion in some localities, it nevertheless is to be kept in mind that the thing that counts finally is the way the official ballot is cast on election day.

In 1922 the spectacular part of the campaign unquestionably was furnished by the Progressives, with the dynamic and popular Roosevelt at their head. What with the Bull Moose symbol, the red bandannas and the battling for the Lord at Armageddon, there were times when the enthusiasm of the new party saw it an overwhelming victor. With the indications that Pennsylvania and California would be broken away from their Republican moorings they were going to make a clean sweep from the Atlantic to the Pa-

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS.

Discontent

Content is degeneration if anything is. If there be any divinity in this world at all it is found in discontent.

Discontent is growth. Just as much as the wiggling of the bird in the nest and the twisting of the tiny roots in the soil are manifestations of growth.

Stand still, frown at every new thing, every new change, every radical thought or suggestion, and you will not only be considered a "back number" but you will ere long be a "dead one."

Progress and the betterment of this world can come about in no other way than through the divine agency of discontent.

It is the thing that makes youth triumphant and brave, and which hardens the muscles of the worker.

But in our discontent our eyes must be fixed upon something better than that at which we work and strive.

We must more and more enter upon living as a business, not merely a vocation.

There is, however, the discontent of tearing down and the discontent of building up. Everything great in this world comes from those who strap this latter idealism to their breast.

Sweet content is all right in its place, but its place must be after the day's work is done and some useful task performed. It is not enough merely to do the thing at hand because it is at hand.

Discontent is looking ahead—that is the divine sort of discontent. This is what makes all great men and great nations as well as happy and successful men and women in all walks of life.

(Copyright, 1924)

Some times the Republican party was put third in the running and again it would be the Democratic.

But when the electoral votes were counted the Democratic party had practically all of them. The Republican party not only ran third but was almost extinguished, having been reduced to only eight electoral votes.

No matter what the straw votes say, it is to be kept in mind that the Democratic party has exhibited the greatest vitality of any political organization in the history of the United States. Not only did it run first in the three-cornered fight of 1912 that some thought would reduce it to third place, but it won in 1916 when Roosevelt had again joined forces against it.

Judged by the victorious manner in which the Democratic party came out of the three-cornered contest in 1912, with Roosevelt, considered one of the greatest campaigners in the history of the country, against it, and by the way it has come back since the landslide against it in 1920, it is only logical to conclude that, with such a leader as Davis, it will be the winner of the latest three-cornered contest.

So the Democrats in this campaign have a pretty solid foundation. The Wilson ideals for peace are taking hold in the world. The Democratic record of achievement grows brighter and brighter while the Republican record of the past three years and a half is largely one of failure.

PEOPLE ARE SOVEREIGN

We have tried repeatedly, and shall keep on trying to do our part in keeping the presidential campaign on sensible ground. But it is a hard task.

For instance here is William M. Butler, Republican national chairman, proclaiming that "The Socialist-Third Party is pledged to the destruction of the constitution" because its platform contains a plank favoring a validate a statute declared unconstitutional by the supreme court. If it is true that this amendment would destroy the constitution, then the constitution has already been destroyed 19 times, since on 19 occasions the people of three-fourths of the states have decided that they didn't like the original document in certain particulars, and that they could get along better if it were changed.

It is not easy to secure an amendment to the constitution. Certainly the victory of Senator La Follette on N. V. 4 would not accomplish it. For first, the proposed amendment must be adopted by congress—not by a majority vote, but by a two-thirds vote of both houses. That alone means that years must elapse before a proposed amendment can be carried, because popular sentiment must be heavily behind it before congress will even act upon it, much less favorably by a two-thirds vote of both senate and house of representatives. But even after congress has thus passed it, the amendment must go to the states, and must be ratified by three-fourths of their legislatures.

Which means that 13 states can block

CLIMATE

Queer weather probably means that the climate is changing faster than usual. Such change is going on constantly, though in the past it has been so slowly that one generation could scarcely notice any difference.

Scientific diggers find animal and vegetable fossils proving that England 100,000 years ago had a tropical climate, in which savage men hunted elephants. Our country, further back, had the ocean extending up over most of the Mississippi Valley.

HAI HA!

After 46 years of steady work experts of the French Academy finish revising the dictionary from A to H. Just as they get ready to start on I, it's discovered that the French language has changed so much in 46 years they have to do their work all over again.

Observe, here, a basic principle of life. By the time we "solve" a social or economic problem, we find another problem has arisen. So goes the merry-go-round.

SHORT

Average American is two inches shorter than in Civil War days, claims Dr. John Harvey Kellogg. He blames it on the "eat and run" habit. That's medically plausible. But a more probable reason is that evolution is responsible. We don't need to be as tall, so we aren't. Sitting in streetcars and autos, instead of walking, is going to cause interesting changes in the human race withing a few generations. Unexercised limbs, after generations, will become shriveled and weak, just as most of us have lost our ancestors' power to wag the ears. The muscles are there, dormant.

HIDDEN

"Big Business" was the chief victim of deflation in 1920 and later, an eastern bank claims. It goes on to demonstrate its case by shrinkage of income, as reported to tax collectors. While it's true that many large businesses lost money, a considerable part juggled their books so much, to dodge taxes, that their reported income doesn't mean anything. An unscrupulous lawyer, with a staff of cunning accountants, can find more sinkholes for income tax report than there are in a sieve.

FORD

Henry Ford now has over 14,000 dealers throughout the world, selling his cars. Almost 10,000 of them are in America.

This certainly is a stupendous organization, and some may consider it the eighth wonder of the modern world. But you don't know anything about the Ford Organization until you get behind the scenes with Standard Oil.

any amendment even after it is passed by congress.

So much for the "danger" of "destruction" of the constitution. But there is still another point. Does Mr. Butler claim that the government of the United States was constructed for all time in 1787, and that the people of today must continue to be governed by a set of men most of whom have been dead for more than a century? The framers of the constitution themselves were wiser than that, since they provided a way of amending the document which they created.

Either the people are sovereign, or they are not. If Mr. Butler is correct, they are not. Either the people are free, or they are not. If Mr. Butler is right, they are not.

JUST FOLKS

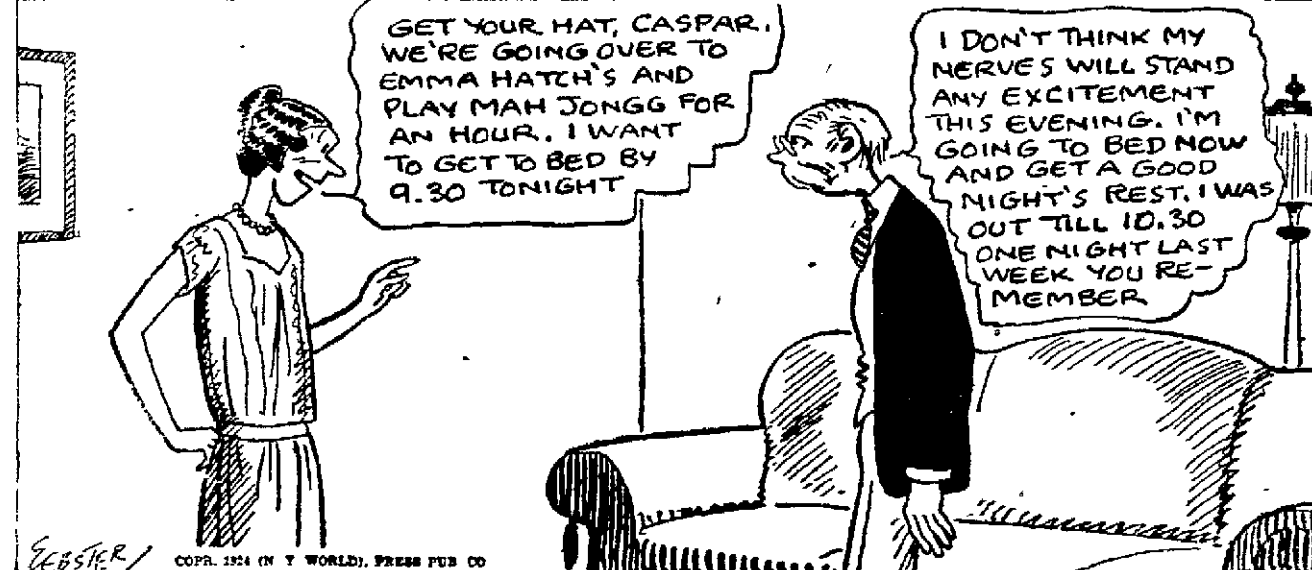

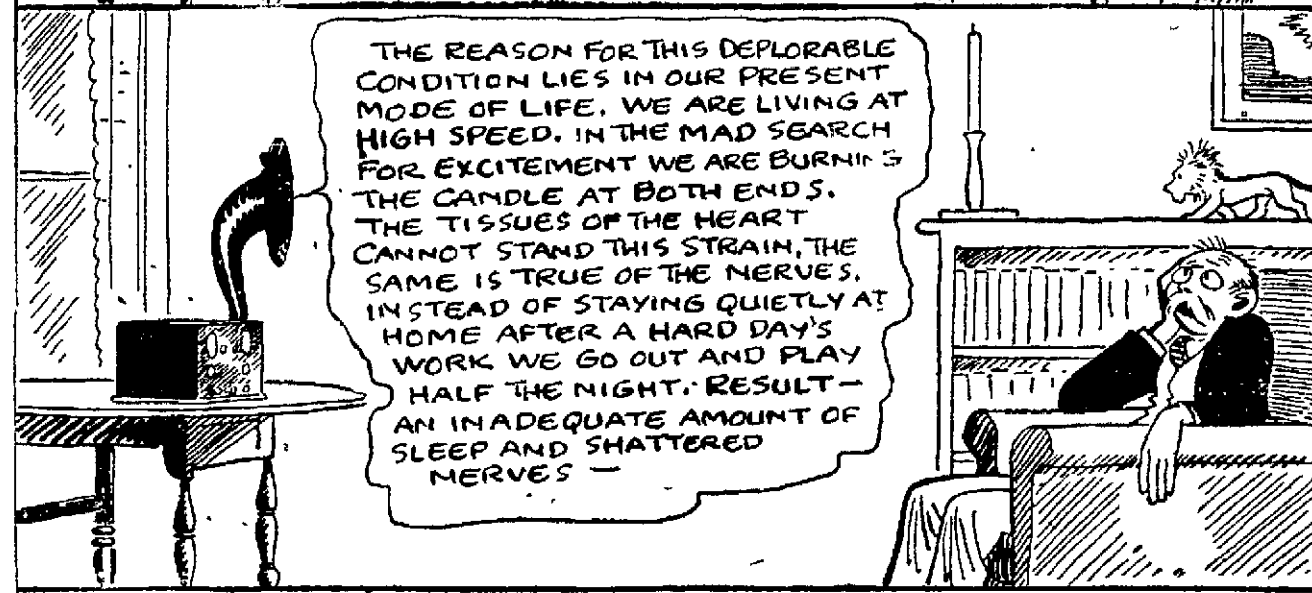

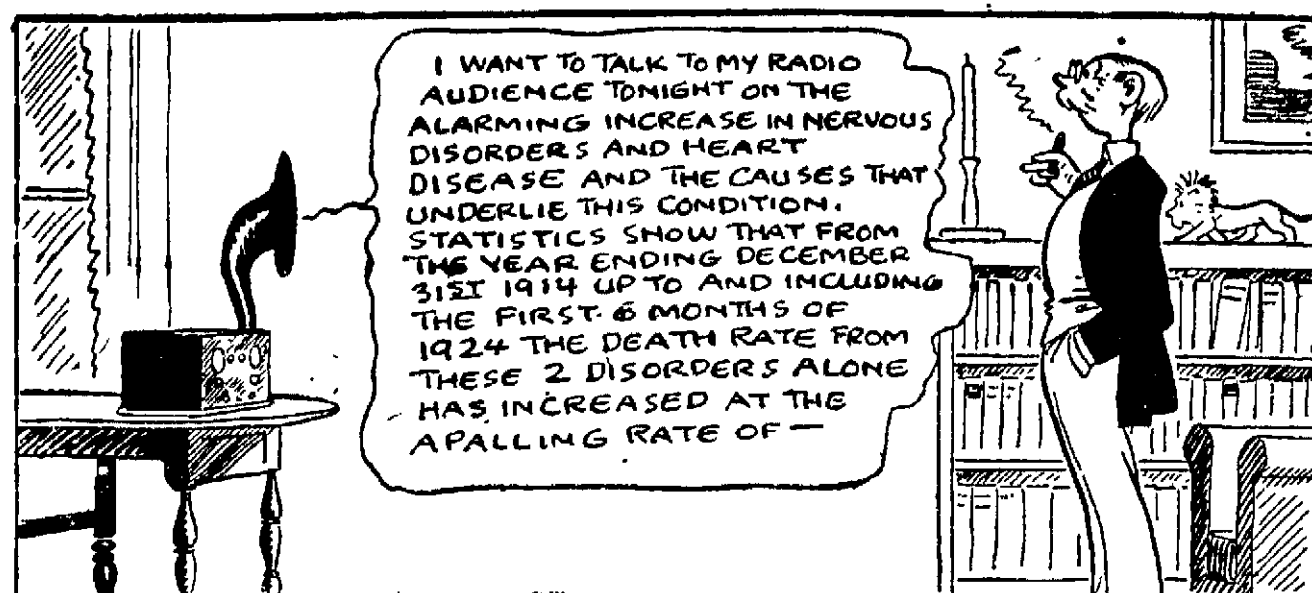

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

Grief

I could not utter it last night
When the voice was dumb
But now alone I try to write
The words which would not come
When all the better voices are dried
Sometime when you are alone
You'll find a calm to those denied
Who never grief have known

If God had spared you every blow
Which comes to us on earth,
Had shielded you from every woe
And filled your years with mirth
And then at last He bade you leave
Your place above to find?
Throughout eternity you'd grieve
For those you'd left behind

The Timid Soul

ROOSEVELT IN AFRICA

by W. Robert Foran

SYNOPSIS

Robert Foran, newspaper correspondent, accompanies the Theodore Roosevelt expedition into Africa in which vessel was to convey us across the Victoria Nyanza to Entebbe. The American flag was broken at the foremost of the ship, as Colonel Roosevelt reached the deck, and this is the first time in history that one of the Uganda Railway steamers had flown an American flag.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

The bongo is only found in the thick forests in certain parts of East Africa. The Wandorobo natives are adepts at stalking and killing them, but there are only two cases on record where a European had secured a specimen as the result of his own individual hunting. Capt. H. Chauncey Stigand had stalked and shot one single-handed, and the other case is one of rather doubtful authenticity.

The bongo is a kind of hybrid bush-buck, with long white tips to its horns and a striped coat. The Wandorobo hunters crawl along the narrow forest paths, and when they see a bongo, they shoot their quarry with bow and arrow. They also hunt them down and kill them with trained hunting dogs.

Kermit had gone out with Cole and a few Wandorobo hunters, and on his own initiative had stalked and shot the two bongos. He had thus created a world's record, for he is the only man who has stalked and personally killed two bongos.

Kermit Roosevelt, indeed, had ample cause to be proud of himself, for he had performed a feat which an older and more experienced hunter might well be envious of.

More-over, he had placed his name high up on the list of successful bongo hunters, and he had served his own country well, for he had given to one of the Museums of Natural History a series of three very rare and valuable skins of the only complete museum group in the world.

Colonel Roosevelt arrived back in Nairobi on Dec. 11. He was simply bubbling over with pride at Kermit's astounding success after bongo.

We reached Kisumu early next morning and our train ran on to the pier alongside of the Clement Hill, which vessel was to convey us across the Victoria Nyanza to Entebbe. The American flag was broken at the foremost of the ship, as Colonel Roosevelt reached the deck, and this is the first time in history that one of the Uganda Railway steamers had flown an American flag.

At this point of our journeyings in Africa ended one particular phase of the Roosevelt-Smithsonian expedition: a day of the world would commence another. We had now shaken the dust of British East Africa off our shoes, and Colonel Roosevelt's thoughts were now entered upon the Lado Enclave and the white rhinoceros, which he so much desired to get.

I knew that Cunningham would not be happy until at least one of these animals had fallen a victim to Colonel Roosevelt's rifle. The white rhinoceros, which is distinguished by a peculiar snout, somewhat resembling the hippopotamus in appearance, derives its name from its color—for it is far from being white—but from the fact that it is practically only to be found on the White Nile.

Soon after 11 o'clock in the morning of Dec. 20, we caught our first glimpse of lovely Entebbe. In about an hour we had entered the peaceful harbor. As the gateway was lowered and made fast, the chief secretary to the government of Uganda came aboard to pay the respects of the acting governor and to take Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit to be his guests at the government house.

In his wake had come all the leading officials of Uganda. On the pier we could see a khaki-clad, red-turbaned guard of honor, composed of Sikh soldiers of the Sixth (Ghana) King's African Rifles.

Chapter XXIII

At Entebbe and Kampala

Entebbe was the most charming spot we had seen in our African travels. There was a wealth of luxuriant vegetation, the vivid green of which blended with dark tropical plants and trees and the blue waters of the lake.

On the evening of our arrival, the acting governor gave a dinner at the government house in honor of Colonel Roosevelt. This was followed by a reception for all the leading officials and commercial residents of Entebbe in order that as many people as possible might have a chance of meeting the famous statesman.

Cunningham-Tarleton had come with us to Uganda—the three naturalists and myself remained on board the "Clement Hill" that night to sleep, for we were leaving on her for Kampala at the hour of dawn.

I was now the only newspaper correspondent trailing the Roosevelt expedition, and was the sole survivor of all the small army of so-called war correspondents who had started out from New York with Roosevelt on March 23. I had now been with Theodore Roosevelt almost continuously for nine months.

After an informal reception at the home of the provincial commissioner, I. A. Kivwesi, Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit drove with Mr. Knowles to pay a visit to the Mill Hill Fathers' Roman Catholic mission, where they were due to lunch with the Right Rev. Bishop Hannan and the American Rev. Mother Superior of the Convent Mother Paul, both much loved and venerated in Uganda.

Colonel Roosevelt was more than delighted with all he saw at the mission, and, speaking to me afterwards, declared that he was "enchanted."

With Mother Paul—for a more delightful woman it would be impossible to meet.

After lunch with Bishop Hannan, Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit went to call on the little boy king of Uganda, Daudi Chwa, who nominally ruled with the aid of his prime minister and regent, Sir Apollo Kazaia, K. C. M. G.

After a brief halt at the king's palace, they drove off to visit Bishop Steicher at the White Fathers' mission and from there went on to meet Bishop Tucker at the Church Missionary Society's station, where all the prominent residents of Kampala had gathered to meet and welcome Colonel Roosevelt to Uganda.

After inspecting the mission, Colonel Roosevelt performed the ceremony of declaring open the new wing of Dr. Cook's Hospital there. And, in the evening, Mr. Knowles gave a large dinner party in honor of his guest. It had been a very full day.

Scoop's Colyum

DRAKES BRANCH, October 1.—(Grapevine Wireless).—"Lives of great men oft remind us, we should choose our wives with care, so, as departing not leave behind us half our natural crop of hair." "On the other hand, wives come in mighty at times," noted Scoop's story.

"Do I understand you to say," asked the judge, "that when you heard a noise you quickly got out of bed, turned on the light, and went to the head of the stairs—that a burglar was at the foot of the stairs and you did not see him? Are you blind?"

"Must I tell the exact truth?" asked the witness, as he mopped his perspiring face and blushed furiously. "Yes, sir, the whole truth and nothing but the truth."

"Well," replied the man, slowly, "my wife was in front of me."

It won't be long now. Just a few days to wait for the Danville Fair and the chicken show and the fireworks in everything. We are going to have the wheels and Hot Dogs and whirlygigs—all that is needed is good weather and Al is going to have that insured! Don't skip it!

Had so much rain on Colquhoun street that the new cobble stones from old Spring street just rolled down the hill and piled up at the Danville Lumber Co plant. John Wells says, "sweetheart, come back to muth."

Now is the time for all good Democrats to chip in a few dollars and help finance the campaign. The G. O. P. is on the run; speed the departing guest!

Not What She Expected.—"Miss Smith," he began earnestly, if timidly, "I've been thinking of you all the week."

"Really?" "Yes, I have been looking forward to this meeting."

"How nice of you to say so!" "Yes, I am half afraid—"

"I think you could persuade me to do most anything."

"How good of you to say so," he said. "Then will you tell you—can I rely upon you to coax your brother Tom to join the football club we're starting?"

Oh, Conrad! He—"For the last hour I have been watching for a chance to steal a kiss from you."

She—"Indeed! Perhaps I had better give you one of my brother's cards."

He—"Why what do you mean?" She—"He's an oculist."

ROYAL COUPLE VISIT INCOGNITO
LONDON, Oct. 1.—Many stories are being told about the incognito visit last week of the king and queen of Belgium in London, when they traveled about on buses and street cars unescorted and unnoticed. One of the best is about Sunday morning in a Jewish street market in Commercial Road, Whitechapel, which is London's Jewish quarter. They boarded a bus in Piccadilly Circus and rode on to the top of Adgate street, then walked down Commercial Road.

Both were plainly dressed, the king in an old baggy blue suit and the queen in a black coat and skirt. They walked before the various street stands, examined the wares, and asked prices. Finally they stopped at a stand kept by an old woman selling saucy colored celluloid combs.

"My wife would like that one," said the king to the old woman. "What is the price?"

"One shilling," replied the woman. "Too dear. I'll give ten pence," said the king.

"Take it, then," said the king, and he dropped the gaudy comb into his pocket, handed over ten pence and walked off unrecognized, except by a detective, who had been assigned to keep an eye on him, whether he liked it or not.

U. S. FLAPPER WIVES CAUSE MUCH TROUBLE AT BIG DIVORCE 'MILL'
BY FREDERICK NEUMEIER
MEXICO CITY, Oct. 1.—All is not rosy in Yucatan, now in the limelight as the world's greatest divorce mill. According to press reports today they are the cause of many troubles in that peninsula of Mexico and the United States flapper is to blame.

The state immigration authorities, admitting that they are not able to cope with the flapper situation, have appealed to the secretary of the interior for assistance. As a result, unless American flappers have letters from their husbands or women they are seeking a divorce saying that it is all right, or from their parents or guardians, they will not be permitted to enter Yucatan.

The flappers shocked the liberal ecclesiastical natives of Yucatan and this edict was the result.

The beginning of the trouble for Yucatan began several weeks ago when newspapers in the United States told how easy it was to get a divorce in the Mexican state. An immediate influx of women desiring divorces was the result. The reports indicate that the Americans were mostly women or young girls of the flapper type. Happy over their prospective freedom they began at once to make merry.

The Tangle

An Intimate Story of Incurment
Emotion Revealed in Private LettersLETTER FROM JAMES CONDON
TO SALLY ATHERTON.
CONTINUED

I know you never will be anything but restless and unhappy, Sally dear, as long as your business and personal interests both are bound up in your employer, and he is a married man. When I was with you you could talk of nothing else except John Prescott and John Prescott's business.

I think perhaps my thoughts were turned to you in a little stranger direction this morning because John Prescott made an appearance at the steel mills armed with a note from Mr. Hamilton asking me to show him all over the place and give him any other attention he might require. The first thing that Prescott said to me was, "Aren't you some relation of Mrs. Atherton's?"

I answered, "I am the cousin of her late husband." Then he launched into the most laudatory panegyric I have ever heard. If one was to believe him there was only one woman in the world who could not only understand the mysteries of the advertising business, but unravel and make them plain as well to clients and the reading public.

"Most women who are good executives are nothing else," he said. "They are sui generis—they are neither women nor men, and you cannot treat them like one or the other. Consequently you are always in a state of annoyance for fear you will not do the right thing. But your cousin is most womanly and appealing. She has the big heart of a woman and the big brain of a man."

"She didn't seem to appeal to Sam very much," I volunteered, for I was a little miffed by the way he referred to you—not what he said, but the way he said it. I felt he had more interest in you than a man with a lovely wife should have.

"I got that idea also from my wife who used to be a friend of yours, Sally. Atherton had been very happy in her married life."

"Isn't Mrs. Prescott still a friend of Mrs. Atherton's?" I asked. He froze up, and after answering curtly, "Yes," he seemed to think he had been to chummy with me or something, and said no more.

I took him over the whole plant, and though he didn't say in so many words, I gathered the old man wanted him to come over and take hold. This being the case, you'll probably come along with the rest of the baggage—I can see your eyes shoot fire as you read that last sentence. All the same, you are wondering what has come over me—poor little me, who was so devoted to you, who dwelt upon your slightest word, and who thought everything you did was perfect. "The boy" you used to call me.

Well, Sally, I have grown up. I have found out that many of the things you said to me are true. You remember when you told me how differently I would feel when I found the right woman, and how at that time I would know that the feeling I had for you was not love, only a friendly and manly relation.

Sally, I have found the right woman—the one woman who brings to the surface all my protective instincts, all my unselfish care, all my feeling of unworthiness of her great love.

She is little and golden-haired, with great blue eyes that fill with tears quickly. She seems to be made only for love, and I am going to marry her as soon as I can. (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

Good Morning Judge!

Wilbur Walker, a negro who first gave the name of "Onis Harrison" for a head on the grand jury this morning on a charge of attempting a criminal attack on Elsie Burnside, colored, 10-year-old child of Arthur Burnside. The attempted attack is said to have taken place near Pett's crossing and there is a possibility of another complaint being filed by Alice Gaston in behalf of her daughter. The negro entered a denial of the charges today. A simple assault charge was sent to the grand jury.

Pete Claiborne, colored, was given "thirty days to think it over" and in addition was fined $11 and costs for entering the house of Mary Belle Ware, colored, and going on a rampage after the negro's mother had refused to permit Claiborne to have her daughter's hand in marriage. Claiborne came after her and when refused raised a "rough house," breaking up a lot of dishes and household furniture. But he didn't get the girl and landed in jail besides.

The following other cases were disposed of: W. T. Hughes, improper brakes, dismissed; Thomas C. Elliott, speeding, fined $21 and costs; Henry Holmes creating a disturbance, fined $2.50 and costs; Vance Shipps, incorrigible youth, continued; Walter Shesbire and Walter Dryman, fugitive from justice bonded under sum of $2,000 for appearance in Martinsville court; John Preston, fugitive from justice, continued; Nat Hunt, colored, reckless driving, fined $21 and costs; Mrs. Ellen Stokes, nuisance, fined $2.50 and costs; W. W. Turner, colored, speeding, fined $21 and costs.

Secrets of Beauty

By MARIAN HALE

(Miss America)

Beauty is an individual problem with every woman. The same exercises and diet that benefit one woman may have no effect whatever on another. Each woman must study to find her own solution.

A woman should try to combine her exercises and her beauty treatment with her daily activities if possible.

Walking is one of the most effective beautifiers there is. You might better walk to your office or up town to do your shopping than ride, if you have the time.

As you go, make an effort to breathe deeply and carry yourself well. Think of your appearance as you walk. Don't swing your arms violently or take long, ungraceful strides during our daily activities and consider your face. If you look worried and strained, relax it for only a few moments.

Breaking up your day with occasional periods of rest will keep you from becoming lined and strained looking. If you feel unhappy or morose, practice smiling.

Try to think of yourself as beautiful and moving gracefully. The difference between beauty and ugliness is a mental as well as a physical difference.

A really beautiful woman is not only lovely herself, but she creates an atmosphere of beauty and harmony about her which inspires others to follow her example. This is the responsibility of every woman who gains physical loveliness.

WIDE LEATHER BELTS
Most of the wide leather belts that are so popular are worn loosely about the hips, but a few of them are pulled rather tightly about the natural waistline while others are worn above.

COAT TRIMMINGS
Sealskin and civet cat are returning to favor as coat trimmings and are very successful with the black wrap.

TASSELS ON HATS
Tassels are very much liked on hats and are usually attached to the crown instead of hanging from the brim as they did last year.

GENERAL SAWYER'S WILL
(By The Associated Press.)
MARIETTA, Oct. 1.—The will of General Charles E. Sawyer, who was personal physician to the late President Harding, filed for probate today left the entire estate to Mrs. Sawyer. Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, son, was named executor.

The will placed no value on the estate, but the executor's bond was fixed at $100,000. Under the Ohio law the executor's bond must be twice as large as the value of personal property.

LITTLE FOREIGN STOCK

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

By HARRY D. HUNT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Washingtonians, who have been paying only twice the rent their living accommodations are worth during the summer, go back the first of October to the regular rate of three times as much.

This is the usual thing in the national capital. Probably there isn't another city in the world from which there's so general a summer exodus, beginning about the middle of May. From then until the middle of September nobody's in town who can possibly get and keep away from it.

Consequently the landlords are left with a lot of vacant houses and apartments on their hands and they trim rentals a little to try and tempt people to occupy them.

For one thing, Congress ordinarily isn't in session in summer.

That makes a big difference. It means the departure, not only of nearly all the senators and representatives, with their families, but also of large numbers whose business directly or indirectly depends on the lawmakers' doings.

All the supreme court outfit leaves likewise.

A majority of the heads of the numerous executive departments, bureaus, divisions, units, commissions, committees, boards, institutes, institutions, foundations, administrations and miscellaneous other offices are important enough persons not to have to stick very tight to their jobs, so they, too, are gone most of the season.

Even the underlings are entitled each to at least two weeks vacation, and while they're not all away at once, a considerable proportion of them are.

On top of all this, "assaults" tears out in a body the minute the trees begin to bud.

Washington summers are maddening hot. Still, it's a pretty place, and comfortable enough in a palm beach suit, and the shade—a lot more so than the average crowded summer resort. So it isn't entire clear why almost the whole community moves away every year.

Probably it's just a habit. It's a mercy, however, for those who do stay here. It gives 'em that little spell of relief from the cut-throat rents they have to pay the rest of the time.

New York's rents have nothing on Washington's and there isn't the same excuse for it. Washington isn't crowded as Manhattan is. While there isn't an excuse, there's an explanation. The explanation is the alright trust the landlords have.

The average government employee has to turn over practically his entire income to his landlord. How he and his family live is a mystery.

What do they eat? How do they clothe themselves? Salaries are low in the government service and that class of people have considerable "front" to maintain.

The Washington rent commission fights the trust as well as it can. It issues orders, gets injunctions and has secured a few indictments. The landlords hate the commission and are somewhat afraid of it, but still they keep rents up—no so high in summer as in winter but twice what they ought to be at the best of times.

MY DAUGHTER WOULD CRY AT EVERYTHING

Nervous and Irritable. By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Became Entirely Normal

Clinton, Wisconsin.—"My daughter was in a very run-down condition, and for these troubles I was irritable, and would cry at every little thing she was so weak and nervous. As Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had helped me when I was a girl I gave it to her to build her up, and the results were all that we could wish for. I wish that every mother with growing girls would try it for these troubles girls often have. I had taken it myself before my girl was born, and she was one of the nicest babies any one could wish to have. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to women and girls and cannot praise it too highly."—A. Holford, Box 48, Clinton, Wisconsin.

Mothers can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve their daughters of those troubles they go on have. They know from experience the value of the Vegetable Compound in the treatment of these complaints and many, like Mrs. Holford, give it to their daughters.

WALT'S STURDY RIGHT AND ART'S PORT-SIDE PAW MOSTLY RELIED ON

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The sturdy right arm of Walter Johnson and the port-side paw of Arthur Nehf will carry on the major share of the pitching burden for the Washington Senators and the New York Giants in the coming world's series. It is almost an established fact that Johnson will be used in the first games of the series in order that he may rest up for another assignment in case he is needed to stem the tide of a Giant sweep.
McGraw's first game pitching selection will be cloaked in mystery until the teams take the diamond for the game but it is believed that Hugh McCulligan will draw the opening assignment, opposed to Johnson.
Both Johnson and Nehf represent the peak of pitching efficiency of their respective teams. Johnson, playing his 18th season as a member of the Washington club, won 23 and lost 7 games during the 1924 American League campaign. Nehf, the "ace" in the McGraw deck, hurled 14 victories and four defeats in the National League.
The pitching burden will likely fall on the shoulders of the "big four" of each team, two left handers and two right handers in each quartet. Harris will rely on the slants of Johnson and Marberry, his starboard fingers, and Zachary and Mogridge, both left handers. McGraw has two star left handers in Nehf and Bentley and two generally effective right handers in McCulligan and Barnes.
Baseball critics agree that Harris will use Johnson in the first game and then again likely in the fourth or fifth, depending upon the aspect of the series. It is against McGraw's policy to shoot his "ace" at his opponent's "ace" and because of this it is figured that McGraw will not use Nehf on Saturday but likely save him for a Sunday shot.

Sir Walter Is a Public Idol in Washington

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—With Walter Johnson, veteran ace of Washington sharp-shooting corps, as the outstanding figure, pitching may be the decisive factor in the 1924 world's series between the Senators and the New York Giants.
Until recent years, twirling was usually the most potent factor in the diamond title struggle, but with the advent of the lively ball and the Babe Ruthian home run era, "baseball strategy" shifted. Pitching, of course continued to figure largely but it has been the speed and power of attack that decided the last three world's championship battles between the Giants and the Yankees.
Giant's Offensive Won
John McGraw won the premier baseball crown in both 1921 and 1922 from the Yankees with the effectiveness of his offensive. His hurling staff both years was rated inferior to the "five star" Yankee corps. Last year, it is true, the utter collapse of the Giant moundmen hastened the Yankee victory but the mighty bats of the Hugmen were the most potent influence.
This year, however, with a less lively ball, pitching may come into its own again. The "big four" of the Washington staff, Johnson, Zachary, Mogridge and Marberry, put the club in front, although it was attacking power that kept it there in the final drive. Supporters of the Senators, figuring they have the edge on the giants in the box, believe twirling will carry Washington's first pennant winner to the greatest heights in the game, but Giant rooters are equally confident that Nehf, Bentley, McCulligan and Barnes will offer a potent rebuttal.

Johnson to Pitch Opener
Whatever the merits of the rival twirling corps, however, interest will center in the achievements of Johnson, probably the only ball player of all time who rivals in popular esteem the former Giant marvel, Christy Mathewson. Johnson, a public idol not only because of his brilliant playing record over an 18-year span but also because of his sterling qualities as a sportsman, will pitch the first game for the Senators.
Outside of the most rabid of Giant partisans, fans throughout the country will root for him in unison that day. Even the tense rival struggle for team honors will be lost in the all-vital question of what Johnson will do upon reaching the goal of his great career.
The Senators' chief hopes, too, will center around the big westerner, whose speed ball has fanned more batters than any other pitcher in the game's history. If Johnson, after one of the most successful seasons he has ever had, can carry his old stamina and form into the series, Washington's chances will be in the ascendancy. Johnson, in his prime, has twirled and won three games on successive playing days. He performed that feat against New York in 1908. His arm could not stand such a strain now but if he is able to bear the brunt of the Senators' mound work, the Giants will find a difficult barrier to break down.

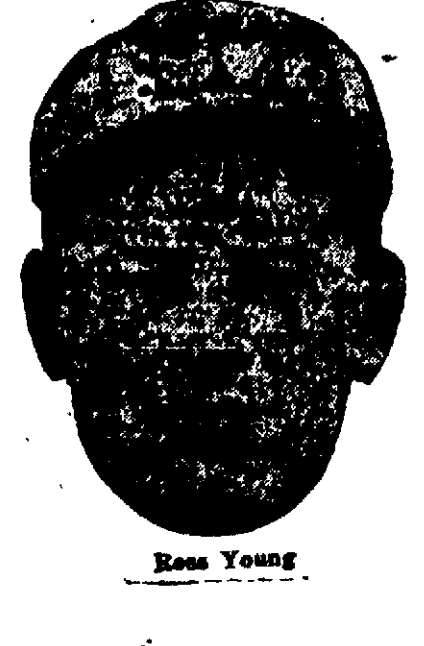

Holds Strikeout Record
Johnson's major league record over 18 seasons is studded with marvelous achievements. He holds by a wide margin the world's strike-out record. With the completion of this season, he had passed the 3,200 mark, and is practically 1,000 ahead of his nearest rival, Mathewson. He led the American League marksmen in this respect this year for the 12th time. Old time baseball players say that when Johnson was in his prime, his "smoke ball" was virtually unhit-table.
The "Kansas cyclone" has won 353 games, only 13 less than Mathewson. With a tail-end club most of the time, Johnson's winning record is all the more remarkable. In 1913, his greatest year, he worked in 51 games, winning 36 and losing seven, putting his club almost single handed into second place, the highest position it ever held until this season. He won 15 consecutive games in 1912, an American League record which he shared with Joe Wood.
He also is the shut-out king of all time by a wide margin, having run his record up to 107 this year. In 1923, he was not scored on in 56 consecutive innings.
Only "Cy" Young has topped Johnson's record of service. "Cy" was in the majors 22 seasons, 12 in the National and ten in the American, but Sir Walter holds the record for length of service in any one league, having spent all his 18 seasons with Washington. Mathewson was 17 years in the National.
Johnson was born in Humbolt, Kansas, and will be 37 next November 6, two days before his young manager, Stanley Harris, will reach his 28th birthday. Johnson, who stands six feet one inch and weighs 195, was with the Tacoma, Wash., club for one season. The following year, 1907, he started with the Weiser, Idaho, club, but joined the Senators before the close of the season.

3. They are not only honest themselves, but they would demand and enforce honesty in all parts of the government.
4. They would turn out rascals of their own indignant free will without having to be forced into action.
5. They are the enemies of the protective high tariff which takes money out of the pockets of the general public to put it into the pockets of an already rich favored class.
6. They believe that public office is a public trust and not a private graft.
7. They believe in an erect, responsible foreign policy whereby America will frankly and courageously take her place in the council of nations instead of pussy-footing through the back door or sitting on the doorstep.
8. They believe in equitable taxation. They do NOT believe in removing taxes from the excessively rich and keeping them on the less fortunate, as the Mellon plan proposed.
9. They believe labor, as well as capital, should get a square deal.
10. They pledge themselves to the Democratic policy of benefits for all the people as opposed to special favors to special classes.

9. Failure to give relief from an extortionate tariff by adhering to the Fordney Act and refusing even to exercise the President's discretionary power to lower duties on monopolized necessities.
10. Failure in its foreign policy which makes America a hanger-on instead of a participant in international councils.

Influx of Baseball Fans Into Washington Has Started

MILLING MOBS BESIEGE TICKET BOOTHS-BEDLAM ON PENNSYLVANIA AVE.

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Washington fanned out today from the bustling sunshine of its first baseball pennant and the festivities of welcome for its returning heroes to give a sublimated to the stern business of the 1924 world championship.

The capital-city began to take on a more decidedly pre-world series atmosphere during the day with the out-of-town influx beginning in earnest and including among other celebrities of the pastime its ruling power, Commissioner Landis. With the arrival of the invading foe, the giant battle already was reaching high pitch.

President Coolidge, in extending the greetings of the national capital to the returning cohort of "Bucky" Harris yesterday, had been given a mad reception along Pennsylvania avenue, apparently diagnosed the local state of mind when he said "we are a somewhat demoralized community—but exceedingly happy over it."

Milling mobs continued today to besiege the ticket booths for the few remaining reserved seats for the series games.

opening here Saturday. Inside the park the American League champions sharpened their batting eyes and kept their game afield on inside. Every Washington fan apparently was doing his best today to give a literal significance to the golden key to the city which Commissioner Rudolph handed to Manager Harris during the welcoming ceremonies yesterday on the ellipse, south of the White House.

The demonstration along the line of procession to the ellipse upset all precedents for historic Pennsylvania avenue. The nation's thoroughfare of last night's inaugural processions became the Washington's own "Main street" as a howling mass of rabid baseball fans refused to remain on the sidewalks and rushed into the street almost blocking the marchers. Traffic police apparently were too busy taking part in the celebration themselves to attempt to relieve a jam of automobiles that blocked the southside of the street for blocks and added to the direction and bedlam that reigned on the avenue for more than an hour.

A loving cup "on the victory already won" was presented to Manager Harris by the president in behalf of the citizens of the district. After his brief address of congratulation and welcome.

Milling mobs continued today to besiege the ticket booths for the few remaining reserved seats for the series games.

Tangles of Radio Face Conference

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Broadcasting over a wider area than has ever before been attempted, advertising by radio, distribution of wavelengths, classification of stations, time divisions, interference, amateur difficulties.

In fact every phase of radio transmission and reception is to be taken up for serious consideration and solution at the third national radio conference, which will be opened here on the night of October 2.

The conference has been called by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, primarily to find a more equitable means for distributing wavelengths or frequencies among broadcast, amateur, commercial, ship and government stations. The first two conferences, also designed for this purpose, did not look far enough ahead to allow their findings to continue practical.

In the face of difficulties encountered by overlapping of wavelengths, limits, and the increase of broadcast, amateur, commercial, ship and government stations. The first two conferences, also designed for this purpose, did not look far enough ahead to allow their findings to continue practical.

Interference. Only by free discussion of the various situations in the industry, it is realized, can anything like a permanent program be reached.

Interference among broadcasters, amateurs and ship stations has come to such a pass that only by getting spokesmen from all types of radio application together can this problem be thrashed out to suit all.

Amateurs especially have been whipped about from one class of wavelengths to another. Given freedom recently in a short wave schedule, the amateurs found themselves confronted with opposition from various commercial stations and special broadcasters who also have been permitted to use low wavelengths or high frequencies.

Broadcasters have found difficulty among themselves, with more stations cropping up at points already crowded with broadcasters, with calls for more advertising and limitations in this field, and with efforts to spread their own propaganda from coast to coast.

Relaying. The last point may produce one of the most important discussions of the conference. The questions whether one dominant station or series of stations should be permitted to broadcast over the whole country at the same time, almost to the exclusion of others, may bring out heated talk on both sides.

In the course of these discussions, it is expected, will come suggestions on the best way to permit nationwide broadcasting by relays in the cheapest possible manner, to prevent relay broadcasting as feasible about as far as the middle west, starting from the dominant stations in the east. Cost of long distance wire service is almost prohibitive for relaying to farther stations.

The South Carolina Power company seeks to install on the Saluda river, in Lexington county, a concrete and masonry dam 120 feet high at Drexler Shoals, to develop power for general sale.

Experts Due To Pick One

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The cables announce today that a lady crystal gazer in Liverpool is predicting the world will come to an end in October.

This is a sort of off-hand way of saying that the baseball experts are going to guess the world series right this year.

It's been a long time since the experts guessed right. For three years they stuck to the Yanks, like a mole on a chorus girl's shoulder blade, and made just about the same amount of progress. Last year they switched to the Giants and if they did nothing else they kept their records straight.

This year they are predicting anything is liable to happen, unless the dope goes plum crazy, they'll probably ring the bell.

As the sexes shape up now according to the expert minds, (1) the team that gets the breaks is almost certain to win, (2) the team that gets the pitching can't be stopped, (3) the team that gets the batting is a shoo-in and (4) you will have your eggs up or over.

Is No Child's Play. Nevertheless and notwithstanding the business of experting is no child's play, and no wonder with all the smart children we have these days.

One of the things that makes an expert what he is, is the pest who is always saying, "Pretty soft for you! Get to go to the games for nothing and meet all the big leaguers."

It is estimated that 455 of these friends were quietly murdered and their bodies dismembered in the two big leagues alone during the month of September.

The number would be much higher if all the experts had money enough to buy guns.

The impression seems to exist that the experts do nothing but guess. This is ridiculous on the face of it. No one ever guessed wrong all the time.

The experts have a system. It is the same system by which one Punch O'Goofy ran a 20-dollar bill into a shoeing at Latonia last month.

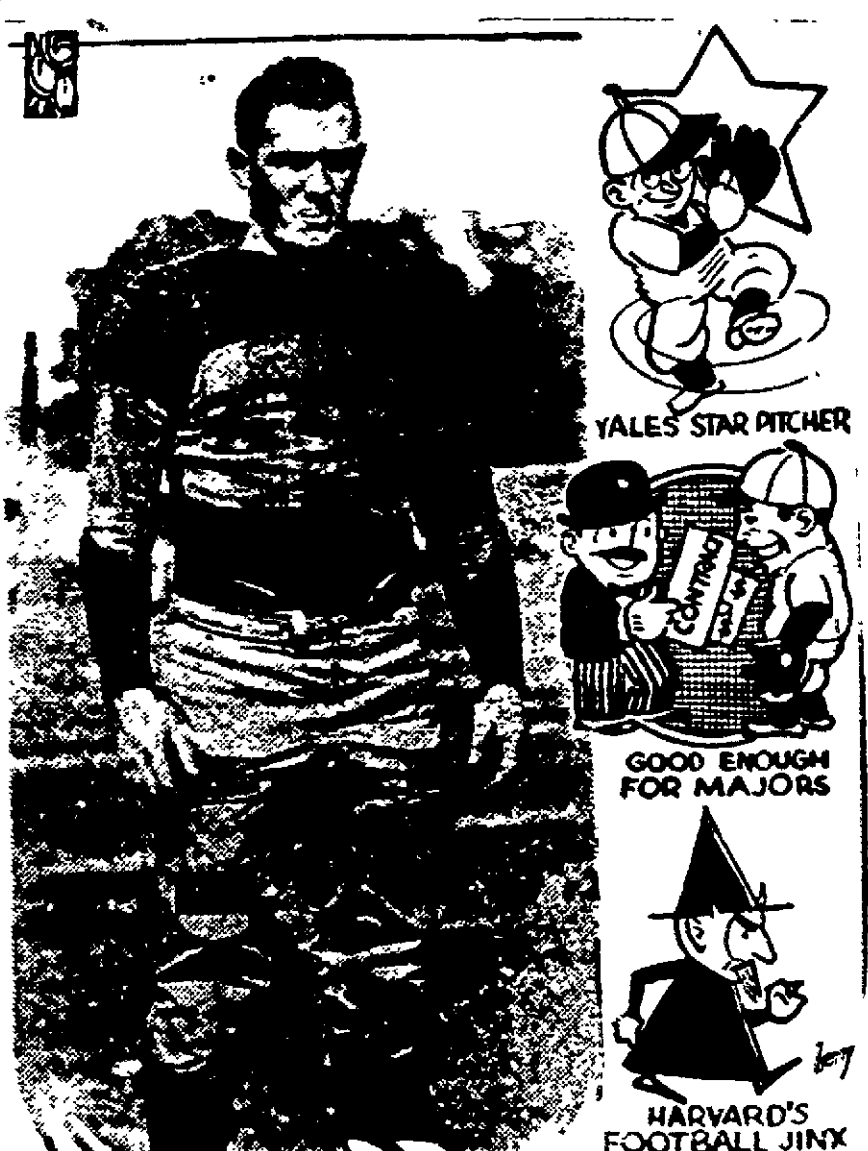

The expert deals lavishly in statistics. By them he can prove that Walter Johnson wears red underwear, is unfitted for an extended career as a wire-walker and is vicious.

This being the case, still stringing with the statistics, it naturally follows that La Follette will carry the west and what chance has Coolidge, a guy that eats pie for breakfast, to beat Davis in Mississippi?

In other words, to a man up a tree, it looks like the -eatest series in history, as we remarked last year, and the year before.

Experiments in Germany have shown that fertilizers poor in ammonia but rich in sodium and potassium tend to keep dandelions and sorrel in check.

Majors Seek Yale Star

HALFBACK "DUCKY" POND

Coch Tad Jones in figuring Yale's chances on the gridiron "banking strongly on Halfback "Ducky" Pond. Last season he was a big cog in Yale's brilliant football year. Against Harvard he was a wonder.

Pond shines in more than one sport, being Yale's star pitcher. A number of major league clubs are already anxious for his services. "Smoky Joe" Wood, former American League star, now baseball coach of Yale, says Pond has the making of a real big leaguer.

TIMELY DONT'S FOR AVOIDANCE OF FIRES GIVEN

Fire Chief Mitchell Points Out Rules Which Households Should Follow

After making final plans for the fourteenth observance of Fire Prevention Week, which will commence on Sunday, October 5, and close on Saturday, October 11, Fire Chief Mitchell today released a statement to the people of the city as a kind of foreword to the coming activities.

"In reminding my fellow workers of the significance of Fire Prevention Week," says the chief, "and in urging them to enter fully into the spirit of the occasion, I do so with a somewhat different feeling from that of previous years. I am more hopeful. Reports which have reached me from writers of the Board of Fire Underwriters, the United States Chamber of Commerce and the Danville Chamber of Commerce, indicate that there is at least a slackening in the rate of advance in our fire loss. In 1921 this loss stood at $455,000,000; in 1922, at $506,000,000, while last year it rose only to $508,000,000.

"This sum of destruction is, of course, still far too large, yet the smaller increase noted is a sign that fire prevention work does pay, and it is just because we have at last proof that all our efforts in the past have been to some purpose that we should not slow up now. It is time to drive the fire more steam than ever."

A new kind of America, an America where fire-safety is not only valued but worth working for the very day in the year. Let's show the rest of the country that Danville means business in its 1924 observance of Fire Prevention week.

Fire Chief Mitchell offers the following timely hints.

Watch disposal of matches and lighted smoking materials. They are responsible for a heavier annual loss than any other known cause. Always keep matches out of the reach of small children.

Use proper fuses in electrical circuits. The fuse is the safety valve of the system and should not be tampered with.

Turn off electric flat-irons and other heating devices while attending to something else.

Gasoline and other volatile liquids make dangerous cleaning fluids; the many safe compounds are on the market, including carbolic tetrachloride, which is obtainable at any drug store.

Defective chimneys and flues caused more than $18,000,000 destruction last year; keep them clean and in repair.

A gas leak should be hunted with a flash-light instead of with an open flame light; to the "suspected" part of the pipe apply soap suds which, in bubbling, will reveal the leak.

Clean all smoke pipes before the winter comes on; if pipes are clogged they overheat easily and may start fire when the furnace is operated.

Walls, ceilings and partitions should be kept free from the overheating of stoves, furnaces and pipes.

Hot ashes belong in metal containers, not in wooden boxes and barrels. Oil lamps or stoves are safely filled only by daylight.

Open fires always should be screened.

GOWDY AND RUEL WILL DON MASKS FOR CHAMPS IN WORLD SERIES GAMES

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—"Hank" Gowdy, veteran receiver of the New York Giants, will don the mask and miter of world's series competition for the third time when the New York team meets Washington in the opening game of the world's series in Washington on Saturday. Opposed to him on the rival combination will be "Muddy" Ruel, who has done the bulk of the work behind the bat for the Senators during the 1924 pennant campaign.

Both former Boston receivers, the former with the Braves and the latter with the Red Sox, Gowdy and Ruel represent the peak of catching ability in each league. In all probability Ruel will carry on during all of the series for the Washington team while Gowdy will be assisted by Frank Snyder, veteran of the last three series with the Giants.

In this important department of defense the Giants will have a distinct advantage. Gowdy is a battle-scarred veteran of two former series campaigns, having performed beyond reproach with the Boston Braves in 1914, when that miracle team upset the famous Philadelphia Athletics and tumbled the American League champions from the throne of baseball supremacy in four straight games, the biggest surprise in the history of the series for the Washington team while Gowdy will be assisted by Frank Snyder, veteran of the last three series with the Giants.

Gowdy is the most spectacular and colorful of the five eligible world's series receivers.

He will use his two catchers but a matter of opinion now, but it is likely that Gowdy will carry on the major part of the work, being supplanted frequently by Snyder. Gowdy has a batting average of .325 and a fielding mark of .989 for the 87 games he has caught for the National League champions, while Snyder is close behind with a batting average of .305 and a fielding average of .990.

Ruel, chief receiver for the Harris forces, has a batting average of .282 and a fielding mark of .980. Two of the Senators' These include Hargrave, younger catchers complete the staff of an d'tate, both breathing their first season of world's series atmosphere. It is unlikely that Harris will call upon either except in an emergency.

Today's Program Most Important

(By The Associated Press.)
COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 2.—Today's grand circuit program was the most important of the racing in Ohio this year. In the Ohio citizens 2:07 trotting stake Marmaduke was opposed by Etta Druen and a number of other noted campaigners. Jimmy McKerron, Hal Mahone, Frisco June, and Buddy Mac are to meet in the Columbus Despatch 2:03 pacing stakes. The Arch City 2:10 pacing stake call was answered by Spark Lanston, Valley Day, Kinney Silk and three others. A 2:18 class trot rounded out the $10,000 program.

The game is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock. "Lefty" Groves, Oriole ace, is expected to pitch the opener, while Cliff Markle, right-hand pitcher, or Howard Merritt, southpaw, will oppose Groves.

PLAY MATCHES TODAY
(By The Associated Press.)

The Hurricanes and Orange county Shabuas will clash with the California Midwinters, national open and junior champions, in the second The final will be played tomorrow.

Says---Now Stiff Joints Must Go

New Discovery Limbers 'Em Up and Even the Cracking Ceases.

Yes, it's true—the world progresses. All you have to do is take a minute to squeeze a half inch of miracle working substance from a tube.

Then rub it on the offending part for about a quarter of a minute until it soaks through the skin and disappears on its errand of mercy.

Then read the evening newspapers and go to bed.

The chances are that your misbehaving knee joint will lose its "creak" while you are dreaming about the high fences you used to leap when you were a youngster.

"And in the morning," says one who has tried the new discovery, "you'll feel so happy that you'll want to jump into your sportiest clothes and walk briskly down the street just to show the neighbors that you are not as old as they think you are."

Joint-Ease they call this wonder working substance for the reason that when ordinary remedies fail to limber up the stiff, inflamed rheumatic joint, or reduce the swelling, Joint-Ease succeeds.

It's a good name for a good clean, penetrating prescription that in just a few months has proven to a multitude of people that lame, swollen, distorted joints can speedily have the kinks taken out of them and work as smoothly as ever.

But Joint-Ease is for bothersome joints, whether in knee, ankle, hip, shoulder, spine or finger and for that purpose its sale is immense.

McCall's Drug and Seed Store has a big supply of it and druggists everywhere report a big demand. Always remember when Joint-Ease gets in joint agony gets out—quick.

BROOKHART, IOWA

G. O. P. FAR APART

(By The Associated Press.)

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 1.—Iowa politics, which has harbored an element of division since Smith V. Brookhart was elected to the United States Senate two years ago without the full support of the state Republican organization, tonight was charged with another uncertainty arising from the senator's latest difference with state party leaders—his denunciation of Charles G. Dawes, Republican vice presidential nominee.

While members of the State central committee were preparing to meet here tomorrow to discuss Brookhart's demand that Dawes withdraw from the ticket, supporters of the senator declined to discuss the matter. Neither group would comment on published reports that the committee might consider a disavowal of the senator.

Perry, who two years ago retrieved the district for the Democrats and gave Virginia the first solid Democratic delegation in three decades. The principal purpose of Summers' trip to Washington was to urge Mr. Siemp to impress upon the Republican headquarters that, if success is to be looked for in the Ninth district, the purse-strings must be unloosed and liberal use made of funds to bring the Republicans out of the mountains to the polling places in November.

Floods Worst At Massie Mill Since Year 1877

(By The Associated Press.)
LYNCHBURG, Va., Oct. 2.—Relayed reports from Massie's Mill, Nelson county, show that the floods in the river there Monday night was the worst since 1877 and that residents were driven from their homes at midnight by the rise of the water. The damage in that immediate section was estimated to be about $20,000. Three bridges above Massie's Mill were washed away. The Virginia Blue Ridge Railroad, a short line which runs across the county, suffered heavy damage.

ROOT RESUMES HIS TESTIMONY IN MURDER CASE

Witness Explains Positions of Those Connected With Killing Maor

(By The Associated Press.)
TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 2.—George Root, Jr., of Seattle, was prepared today to resume his testimony begun yesterday at a prosecution witness in the trial of Roland Pothier, formerly a sergeant at Camp Lewis, charged with the murder of Major Alexander P. Cronkhite.

Root was a member of intelligence section of the Coast Engineers to which Major Cronkhite, Pothier and Captain Robert Rosenbluth, charged jointly with Pothier with the slaying of Major Cronkhite, belonged.

Major Cronkhite was shot while on a practice march with his command. Root yesterday explained in detail the relative position of the regiment and Rosenbluth, Pothier and Cronkhite at the time of the shooting. He said he heard three or four shots and he made no move until Rosenbluth appeared in the road and called for Lieut. Elmer W. Seaburg, medical officer, who is now in Tacoma as a witness.

Root asserted that the wound was not fatal and the major's shirt had been opened up in an effort to give artificial respiration, it having previously been said that the major had fainted from a heart attack. He said that it was explained that the major had been shooting at a tobacco can and had accidentally shot himself. Rosenbluth, he averred, appeared greatly excited and talked as one who had lost a dear friend. He said he picked up three or four empty shells, two being about six or eight feet from the body and two more about two feet from Pothier.

NEW YORK COTTON.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 2 to 11 points and sold six to fourteen points net higher. December advanced 2 1/2 to 2 3/4 on relatively low Liverpool cables, apprehensions that the present warmer weather might be followed by another cold wave in the southwest and further buying on recent crop complaints.

Advance met some hedging and realizing or local selling, promoted by expectations of an increasing movement with the better weather now prevailing over the belt. December eased off to 24.50 but the market was fairly steady at the end of the first hour.

MORNING STOCK LETTER.

(Thomson & McKinnon)

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Cables better than due. Advance of yesterday from $3 to $3.50 from low was caused by general buying, by some trade buying, short covering, some bad features in weekly weather report, a distinct tendency of smaller crop estimate and the largest export 191,000 bales—in one day for the past four years.

Light frost appeared in Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas, South Carolina, Tennessee and Louisiana. Dry goods reports a shade better. Spot higher, firm and prices higher. Technical position weaker. Short interest practically eliminated. Considerable late long speculative buying. Advice not following advance from present level anticipating lower prices in near future.

(By The Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Led by a sudden advance of five cents a bushel in the rice market, wheat and other grain went rapidly upward in price today when business began. Wheat opened 11-5 cents to 21-5 cents higher.

Corn opened 1-2 cent to 11-8 cents higher. Oats started 1-2 cent to 1-5 cents up. Provisions responded readily to the upward swing of grain and hog.

POTATOES.

(By The Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Potatoes trading fair; market about steady. Minnesota and North Dakota sacked Red River Ohio 1.00@1.05. Minnesota sacked round whites 1.00@1.10; Wisconsin sacked round whites 1.00@1.15; bulk 1.10@1.20; few fancy shade higher. South Dakota sacked early Ohio 1.00.

MORNING GRAIN LETTER.

Thomson & McKinnon

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Export sales of wheat are running a little better than recently but are not to be taken. Further than that there is a liberal inquiry for both wheat and rye at slightly under ruling prices. Surpluses of exporting countries are being revised downward while estimates of requirements are being raised. The theoretical shortage in world situation might easily become an actuality if the southern hemisphere crops are hurt. All price reactions should be met with buying orders.

N. CAROLINA FLOOD CONDITIONS BETTER

(By The Associated Press.)
RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 1.—Reports received here tonight indicated that the flood conditions in eastern North Carolina had improved considerably during the day and, with one exception, the rivers were reported as gradually receding toward normal. The Neuse river in Wayne county, however, had not reached flood stage, and with the river 12 feet above normal and reported rising at the rate of six inches an hour residents of the lowlands tonight were retreating to higher ground. The crest of the flood at that point was not expected before midday tomorrow. Already most of the lowlands were said to be inundated to a depth varying from one to three feet.

MORNING STOCK LETTER.
(Thomson & McKinnon)
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Yesterday the market advanced and therefore the newspapers are given in all of the prominence to the favorable industrial news. It's favorable all right but it isn't news because we had exactly the same conditions the day before and the day before and many days before for quite a while. The only difference is that on reactionary days every one is hunting for an unfavorable item in order to explain the reaction and on strong days they go back to the good items. Do you think this is a real lasting bull market? Do you think we could have a real lasting bull market with a radical victory in November? Is it certain that Coolidge will be re-elected? Does it occur to you that the senatorial voices from California and Iowa mean a senatorial effort to prevent a decisive election and to take the election job for themselves and their friends in the house? Beware of radicalism! It is a horrible menace. As long as you are sure don't follow the market on bulges. If you bought some on the reaction, sell some on bulges.

NEW YORK STOCKS.
(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Inauguration of dividends on the preferred stock of the St. Louis San Francisco railway brought a sharp rally of 6 1/2 points in the shares at a new high at 73 1/2 at the opening of today's stock market. A block of 3,000 shares of Frisco common also changed hands at 31, up one point. The trend of other issues continued up with General Electric and Famous players mounting more than a point each. Hasty profit taking carried Frisco preferred 2 1/2 points below its early high, but the demand for other shares continued unabated, disclosing a number of new 1924 high records. Constructive business developments were reflected in gains of 1 to 2 points recorded by Baldwin, American Can, Railway Steel Spring, Lackawanna, Standard Plate Glass, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Colorado Fuel, Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, Pan American "B", American Chicler, American Tobacco "B" and Gulf Mobile and Northern preferred. The rise in Leigh Valley, said to be based on proposals for linking the road with the Washburn lines, continued. As heretofore, many high-grade stocks registered good strength. Consolidated Gas was subjected to selling pressure, falling two points. Foreign exchanges opened steady.
